

A view of the house taken before the estate was built at the back.

Still the same but the road to the estate now runs down the side of the house.

Can you remember this pig?

Mr. Cook kept pigs and chickens and had them roaming all over the front garden. He belonged to the pig club at the Eyre Arms run by Mr Tom Frank Quickfall. He was also an insurance agent calling at nearly every house collecting a Hospital Insurance. He died in 1936. The chickens and pigs went - probably before he died and croquet was played on the lawn. This was well remembered by people in the village.
